ACTIVITIES AT HOME AND WITH FAMILY

Two Sundays ago, my family and I were at home enjoying a quiet day. My mom was cooking a delicious dinner while my dad was fixing some things in the garden. My little sister was playing with her favorite doll in her room, and I was helping my grandma knit a sweater! We were all busy but happy to be together.

While we were busy with our activities, an unexpected storm started outside. The wind was blowing hard and the rain was hitting the windows. We decided to take a break from what we were doing and gathered in the living room. There, we sat together, chatting and laughing as we waited for the storm to pass. It was comforting to be together as a family, sharing those special moments.

After the storm ended, we went out to the garden to see the plants and trees after the rain. My dad and I started planting some new flowers, while my mom and grandma prepared a delicious snack for everyone. We enjoyed the afternoon together, appreciating the calm after the storm and the love that unites us as a family.
